

Elite Combo

When our qualifiers are on an even playing field, they nearly always at least place. By even playing field we mean – clear run, well ridden and no serious mention in the stewards' report.

So, when one of our bets runs below expectations, the first place to look is the stewards' report.

On Saturday, after three betting races, we had two winners (Tazima and Harry's Yacht). We were in front and had some serious chances coming up.

in those four remaining betting races we had mentions in the stewards' report for Teine Aulelel (BLED), Purple Streak (the dreaded SLOW RECOVERY), and Buckaroo (THROAT COONDITION).

We went from a profit situation at the hallway mark with great expectations of adding substantially, to having to watch as three of our bets could not compete.

Teine Aulelel amazingly still ran third.

Purple Streak ($2.70 into $2.45) dropped out and Buckaroo (smashed in the betting) was just a shadow of his best.

On top of that, the very-heavily backed Veight did not want to be there. The stable was very confident and he looked awesome. He was immediately retired.

That's racing. It happens week after week.

Last week, Tentyris, a hot $2.30 favourite to win the $2 mil Newmarket, had CARDIAC ARRHYTHMIA. It happens to the best.

We estimate that half of the ~ 38% of Elite-Combo bets that miss a place would have a strong excuse in the stewards' reports. A good proportion of the rest were probably badly ridden.

Yet, despite all that, we are averaging 34.6% winners @ $4.07 from more than 2000 Elite-Combo bets since 2021.

That equates to a 41% profit on turnover.

Eachway punters? The bottom line is +2.2% profit on turnover (using mid-tote place divs) over those five years.

I know there has been a lot of shoes go through the TV so that has to come off the bottom line – or maybe watch in bare feet.

Anyway, after all that drama. The Elite Combo finished 3.96% down for the day.

The Combination Nationwide-Elite Combo plan amazingly broke even.

Nationwide Best bets won again, taking this month's gain to + 5.00% of the bank. Still a bit to make up for February though.

Top-Rated: Melbourne and Sydney Elite Ratings Pro-Sheets.

There was great interest in our coverage of the Top-Rated performance of Melbourne and Sydney this season. There was a discrepancy in the Mel printout so, for those who missed that newsletter, we will repeat it here with up-to-date results.

“...The obvious key ingredient to having such strong winning strategies is accurate, profitable base ratings.

Here is what is forming the foundation of our industry-leading plans.
