

Elite-Combo Results

After winning $920 last week the Elite-Combo gave back $600 on Saturday ($10k bank as always).

This inconsistency and negative phase is very frustrating for everyone.

The upgraded current algorithm piled on a 27.5% bank increase in live betting from September to December 2025. The bank drawdown in 2026 is 20%.

Let's look at where 2026 so far is lagging the previous five years.

Runs where 20% is wiped off the bank are not unique to 2026.

- Early in 2021, it gave up 23.9% in a single month.
- May 2024 lost 25.5% of the bank.

The difference this year is that it has been a slower process to get close to that scale of loss.

Not unprecedented though. It is like July through Sept 2022, a multi-month period where the bank lost 19%.

Number 1

The most glaring issue is the level stakes bottom line as compared to the bet scale as listed.

Bet Scale

$ 15,800	$ 14,945	-855

Even during the first four months of the live period of the current algorithm when the profits were rolling in, the level bets outperformed the scaled bets.

In fact, the level profit on turnover was double the scale bets as listed. (41.9% v 20.4%).

Why?

Because the 2.0% bets decided to go AWOL.

They started the live period by continuing with the long-term 50% win strike-rate (5 from 10) but then began a protracted run of losers.

Sure, more than half were placing but they were seconds and thirds. The actual live bottom line of + $775 live net profit includes - $3,960 of $200 bet losses!

The Elite-Combo live net profit without the $200 bets is $4,735.

Obviously, you can't simply drop the 2.0% bets. Long-term they are by far the highest winning strike-rate bets. But their run of outs is the main reason for the live bottom line being just + $775.

Going back to 2021, the 2.0% bets have a 48.7% strike-rate and 55% profit on turnover. That's over 267 bets. The live period of 2.0% bets is only 36 bets in.

We must trust the long-term power of these qualifiers.

The strike-rate of the live bets that were less than 2.0% is nearly identical to the long-term, hence the big profits still coming from those bets.

(+ $4,735 live).

Number 2

Rated Order

The top-rated selections are performing better than the lower-rated qualifiers.

Top-Rated Elite-Combo (live as listed):

33% winners and + $1,786 net profit. (includes $200 bets - $2,570).

That's close to 2021-2026 long-term strike-rate of 37.7%.

2nd/3rd Rated Elite-Combo:

23% winners and a net loss of $1,011.

(includes $200 bets - $1,390).

Number 3

Winners v 2nds & 3rds

This year so far, we've had 158 Elite Combo bets.

98 have placed (1, 2 or 3).

That's 62% placings.

42 Wins: 27%

25 2nds: 16%

31 3rds: 20%

42 wins v 56 seconds and thirds

In the same Jan-May period last year there were 161 bets.

101 placed (1, 2 or 3).

That's 63% placings.

58 Wins: 36%

18 2nds: 11%

25 3rds: 16%

58 wins v 43 seconds and thirds.

The same number of bets finished in the placings in both years but the wins v 2nds/3rds ratio (36% v 27%) switched completely.

This is one phenomenon that appears in any losing streak. If we did not see that discrepancy, we would be worried.

Your Spreadsheet

All today's information was gleaned from your online "Elite-Combo 2021-2026 members spreadsheet".

Elite-Combo-2021-2026-Members-Spreadsheet Excel to May 16th 2026

There are many other variables that you could research but be careful. Small data samples can be misleading.

For example, you could filter just the live bets (Sept 2025 to May 2026) that were $6.00 or better (AM Odds).

That would show an awesome live profit of $3,320. 11 winners @ $7.37 from 36 bets!

BUT, the earlier pre-live results in 2025 show just 4 winners from 35 bets and a loss of $455.

Any period can throw up Elite-Combo results that vary way off the norm. 2026 so far is THAT period.

The fun times are when that variance goes our way!

Coming Up

These are the coming racedays for Elite Coverage, right up to end of the racing season. Scone next Saturday is the last of the bush meetings so it's a clear run of big city meetings over the next few months.
