

Saturday.

The writing was on the wall after our first Elite Combo bet on Saturday.

Columbus (Syd R1) won the race but lost on protest.

That “win” became the first of three seconds from six bets for the day. Instead of a winning strike-rate of 33.3% for the day, it was 16.7%. The place strike-rate was 66.7%

Nationwide was similar with seven of the eight bets placing (87.5%) but just the two winners (25%).

We can't wait for the wins v 2nds/3rds ratio to correct. It will be a huge reward for patience during this losing period.

One good day can recover many days' losses.

Current Elite Combo Algorithm. LIVE (from 11th July)

Let's look at some stats of the live bets of the current algorithm – since July 11th. Then again, the faint-hearted should probably look away now.

By the way, we have provided members with many similar losing-streak reports over the Elite years, but it doesn't get any easier.

Elite Combo Live as Listed July 11th to Oct 3rd, 2026

a) ALL Bets

72 bets, 20 winners (26.0%). Bet $10,220, Return $8,930, Profit -$1291 (- 12.6%)

b) Assuming Opt-In level of 5

68 bets, 19 winners (27.9%). Bet $9,120, Return $8,652, Profit -$ 468 (- 5.1%).

Here's how that awful short-term snippet compares with the thousands of bets, long-term.

Multi bets

Interest in the multis (Exactas, trifectas and first-fours) is growing all the time.

Results

We are working to get past results spreadsheets up to date after disruptions over recent weeks. Keeping accurate records of past results is something that other services avoid like the plague – for obvious reasons.

We do the extra work and try to keep the records up to date but it must be remembered that it is a free extra that can be out-prioritised at times.

Cross -Referencing

The process of sourcing and calculating Nationwide qualifiers and Elite Combo qualifiers is completely different. It is not possible to cross-reference between the two strategies or the Elite Ratings Pro-Sheets.
